Democracy is just as good as it ever was.

John Stanton's resignation was a little previous.

Charlie Blanford sends congratulations to Gross and Lennin.

Democracy is still doing business at the same old stand.

Miss Mina Wheeler was elected superintendent of schools in Crittenden county.

There'll be no land for the Republicans to stand on next year. We'll just "slide" on into next year.

It is always the unexpected that happens. Jonas Wilson had no more thought of being elected when he first entered the race than a man who was not a candidate.

The greatest disappointment came to Smith Wagoner, who is a red hot People's party man, in the defeat of John Stanton. Smith thought they had a sure winner in Stanton.

Salt river will not be a difficult stream for the Hon. Charles to navigate. He knows the channel. It's a familiar stream to him, and then he knows of him running on a sandbar or a snag.

Now let us relegate politics to the powwows and turn our attention to better things, for instance good roads for Breckenridge county. Democrats, Republicans, Populists and all can stand on the platform of good roads.

John Stanton is given the credit of defeating the Millers. It seemed to be his only object in the race. There is no other class of citizens in this county than the Millers. They are all self-maintaining, pay their taxes and are honorable upright men.

The vinger in Jeff Stretzell is even more rancid after it is all over than it was before the fight. What's the matter with you Jeff, anyhow? You'd better attend a good Baptist revival like you have in this town now. Come up and ask the Lord to have mercy on you poor soul.

Mike Miller says the path to political glory and preferment is not an easy or alluring one. Never mind Mike, you are young yet and you can afford to wait.

Advise to you, it is to post yourself, get a good speech, take to the woods, bounce the highest stump you can find and proclaim it to the trees, from now until the next canvass. You've got the best of it, Mike. Most young men you are a little too timid.

We congratulate all the candidates elected, Groves, Gilmore, Wilson and our young friend Drickell. The people have said you are their choice.

The will of the people is the supreme law of the land. You are now the servants of the people regardless of politics, color or condition. We have every confidence that you, one and all will fulfill your trust and make us wise and efficient public servants.

The Fordville Revival.
The Owensboro Inquirer says, "The meeting conducted by the Baptist church at Fordville, Ohio county, continues to grow in interest and results. People attend the meetings from the country, some coming a distance of from ten to fifteen miles. The business houses of the town have been closed day and night during religious services. All denominations are actively engaged in the work and the church is doing well. As if the meeting was strictly their own. Never was such a movement known in that town before. About 70 have united with the different churches of the town."

BREATH IN DEAD MEN

STARTLING RESULTS OF A NEW JERSEY DOCTOR'S EXPERIMENTS.

He Has Made a Simple Apparatus With Which the Lung May Be Put to Work After They Have Once Stopped—It Has Not Failed and Any One Can Make It.

Dr. Edwin De Bann of Passaic, N. J., makes the announcement regarding the time honored statement that a man has died from lack of breath—that if breath was all he needed he should have lived.

Considering that air is the most plentiful resource of nature, and that the real economists would say, no value because of its abundance, one would think that Dr. De Bann had made no particular discovery. But there is more in his statement than is apparent at first.

From time immemorial physicians have directed their ingenuity toward an effective application of this wealth of air, but without satisfactory results. Cases of suspended animation come under their notice every day. Men are rescued from the water after a land battle with the waves, their lungs filled with water, the life's action suspended. In the majority of instances, the cause of animation cannot be effected. The lungs may be emptied of the water; the life giving air, so abundant, is at hand—and if it could only be forced into the organs and respiration started life could be restored. Physicians' efforts to do this, however, have been unsuccessful, but says Dr. De Bann, misdirected.

When a man is rescued from the water, the first thing done is to empty the lungs of water by rolling him on a barrel or lifting him from the ground head downward. Then he is laid on his back, the arms raised to expand the lungs and a rhythmic contraction and expansion of the chest walls effected by alternate pressure and relaxation. Sometimes the forcing process has been kept up for hours with ultimate success, but considering the possibilities recognized in artificial respiration the results have been far from encouraging.

Dr. De Bann has worked on an entirely new line, and the result of his experiments and observation is a simple internal respiration, which, he claims, cannot possibly fail. His attention was first directed to the subject by a case of suspended animation in a newly born child. It has been the practice in such cases to force air into the lungs of the infant by breathing into its mouth and then contracting the lungs by pressure upon the chest. But this has been found not only intensely disagreeable, but highly inefficient.

Dr. De Bann decided to try a new expedient. He passed a small rubber tube through the nose of the infant and down into the throat. Closing the tube, he forced air through the tube from a rubber bag, inflating the lungs; then, releasing the pressure from the mouth, found, as expected, that the elasticity of the muscles of the chest caused immediate contraction of the lungs, forming a complete respiration. This he kept up for 45 minutes, when natural respiration had been restored, and a life had been saved. Since then Dr. De Bann has perfected this hastily improvised apparatus and finds that animation may be often restored within 15 minutes.

The apparatus is as simple as it is ingenious. It consists of a long rubber tube, near one end of which is a small soft rubber with which to cover the mouth and nose. At the other end are two rubber bulbs. After the tube has been inserted between the teeth, and the mouth and nose covered slightly, the lower bulb is compressed and air is forced into the second bulb, which acts as a reservoir. This second bulb is much more elastic than the other, and when the steady pressure of air through the tube, it is covered with loose netting, which acts as a sort of safety valve against overpressure. The tube is fitted with a stopcock that may be used to lead force to the first few respirations.

A few compressions of the lower bulb are sufficient to fill the lungs. Then the pressure on nose and mouth is released, and the lungs are expanded by the natural elasticity of the muscles of the chest. This elasticity remains even after death, and with this instrument it is quite possible to make a dead man breathe regularly as long as the application continues. In some of the experiments on dead bodies this situation of life has been absolutely startling.

It is not for dead men, however, that the "inflater," as it is called, has been devised, but for men who have been brought apparently to death's door by asphyxiation from gas and water. In the latter case the lungs must be emptied. The apparatus weighs but a few ounces. It is not patented, as Dr. De Bann is a strict believer in the free use of ideas, which declare that the discoveries of a physician belong to the world. He is treasurer of the state board of medical examiners of New Jersey and has invented several valuable surgical instruments and devices—New York World.

Gold and Glorious Surroundings and a

Sandy Hill of France. We reached the Trappist refectory, a great cool room, with whitewashed walls and five long, narrow tables, benches on each side, stretching from end to end, was the place where the monks took their very frugal meals. The tables were laid for 120 monks. There were no cloths, and it is almost needless to add that there were no napkins, although these are considered essential in France that even in the most wretched eatery one is usually laid out before the guest. Trappists, however, have little need of them.

At each place was a wooden spoon and fork, a plate, a jug of water, and another jug—smaller one of beer, and a porringer for soup, which is the chief diet of the Trappists. Very plain food it is, the ingredients being water, chopped vegetables, bread and a little oil or butter.

Until a few years ago no oily matter, whether vegetable or animal, was allowed in the soup, nor was it permitted, except in case of sickness, to have more than one meal a day, but the discovery of relaxing the rule a little was realized. Now, during the summer months of the year, there are two meals a day—namely, at 1 and 6, but in winter there is still only one meal, and this is at 6. There is, however, a good reason for this—namely, the monks—just something to keep the stomach from collapsing—eat only one meal a day, no fish, no flesh, no animal product, except cheese and butter.

CHICAGO'S DASTARDLY GUILTY.

Patrick Eugene Prouty, who recently assassinated Carter H. Harrison, mayor of Chicago, is a student of the Goutier school. He was a paper writer in Chicago. With a sword he declared that Mayor Harrison had promised to make him corporation counsel and he had not kept his word.

For Christians.

If you want to see the devil grin, let a Christian stop to consider a proposition (perhaps). No way do I see it never and every time he comes around, no matter in what shape, tell him to go to hell where he belongs.

The great "Physician" says come to Him and He will give you joy for sorrow—health for sickness—hope for despair—life eternal for death—a home in heaven for a home in torment—now the man that won't trade when he has such an offer as this, ought to go to hell. You can all understand this. We frequently meet men who know more about religion and the future state of man than Christ did—they know more than you can find in the bible. Some of them have already gone ahead to steal the horn from "Gabriel," so they can sound it just when it suits them. When they wake up in hell dancing "Fisher's Hornpipe," they will know which one of the boys they are—and like the little boy that could not read will find out they have taken the wrong road to "Baltimore" and that the sun has gone down.

This common diet is the healthiest for the body—God died—we mean. Just as when a preacher goes to feed a congregation spiritually, give them something substantial—something that will stick to their ribs—it will be easier digested and the effect will be good—they will be built up, not down, they will understand him and won't go away saying, what did he mean?—what did he say? No, none of that, they will catch on like a duck to a jug—try it once brothers. The trouble to day is too many Christians are moral cowards—especially preachers—they are afraid to declare the whole truth because it is not popular. They are standing like Peter around some one else's fire, undermining and denying Christ, God never said coward, nor will he ever do anything for you. Come down out of the loft brethren and help him the bear or shut your mouths and that quicker than a steel.

It must have been many years before that the peach was improved from the almond, and this fact goes to show the great antiquity of the fruit. Possibly the earliest variety of the almond, the almond has a thin shell around the stone, which splits open and shows the flesh, which is eaten. The almond has simply become fleshy in the peach, so that it is all that gives it its specific character. It seems clear from investigation in the history of ancient Babylon that in their gardens, nearly 4000 years ago, the peach was cultivated then as it is now.

A Dance Without a Smile.

They have a singular kind of dance conducted on the greens of country villages in Russia. The dancers stand, a kind of young men, a kind of maidens there, each sex by itself, and select as a crowd of women. A piper leads into a tune, a youth pulls off his cap and challenges his girl with a wave and a bow. If the girl is willing, she waves her hand and the youth follows her. The youth advances, takes a corner of the handkerchief in his hand and leads his partner round and round.

No word is spoken, and no laugh is heard. Stiff with cords and rich with color, the girl moves feebly by herself, going round and round, and never allowing her partner to touch her hand.

The pipe goes droning on for hours and the same key and measure, and the spirit of merit in this "crowning" as the guests are called, is given by spectators to the lands who at all summer revelry has never spoken and never smiled—New York Ledger.

The Rolling Passion.

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1905.

Some Breckenridge Boys in the Promised Land.

ANTHONY, KANS., Nov. 4th, 1905.—
DEAR EDITOR:—To-day finds me back in the state of Kansas, where I will remain for several days. I have just returned from a week's "tour" in Cherokee county and New Oklahoma, better known to the people in these parts as "The Promised Land."

These new and fertile lands were opened to settlement on Sept. 16th. Fast and surprising as it is, there are now towns of three and four thousand population and a rule but a short time ago nearly all the quarter sections in this new county, except where persons are located to far from railroads to get their building material, and even there, houses are building and houses and dugouts, which to the people of our state would seem quite queer.

Cyrus Green, Art Goodman and myself, on Section 4, in township 23, range 10, of this new and almost matchless country. We have each secured nice claims of 160 acres each in the broad prairie lying north of the Cimarron river and in two and one-half miles of a large scope of fine timber known as "the jacks."

For the last week numerous prairie fires have been spreading over this section of the country, and doing quite a bit of damage, burning up some houses and farming implements and a large amount of hay that has been put up since the day of settlement. There is at present a good number of claims where two or more would stake the same one, and they both or all refuse to leave and I suppose some have been killed because they refused to give up to one who thought they were first. One man was found floating on the surface of a large pond with a sledge hammer and picked tied to his head. He was taken out and an inquest held over the body but was not recognized. He was buried in a sand hill to remain until the final day. It is supposed he was killed in a quarrel about a claim. There is a little contesting in our part of the country, and in fact several good claims not taken yet, and likely will not be before spring. There is lots of fine grazing land that is too sandy for raising purposes, not taken and will not be only for persons who wish to raise cattle, for which the sandy land is the best. There is also in each section a few sections of school land that will be leased one-fourth or quarter to any one who will take it for three years at $25 per acre, and then it will be sold for the highest bidder giving the one who has had it the preference. I think this is almost as good as to own the land if any one only wants to try the West a few years. I would be glad if there were more of my neighbor boys with us, for I am satisfied this is as good a strike as they could make for their future good.

Art Goodman will leave us a few days for Kentucky, where he will stay for several months getting out switch ties for the L. S. & T. R. R. We hate to see him start as he is the only one of our old neighbors that is with us here, and we will miss him in our rambles over the new country. We will go back to this country again in a few days and take a deer hunt, as deer are very numerous down there, I think we will have good success. Hoping someone may attend the News and all who read it, I am yours respectfully,

D. G. HARKEN.

A Few Remarks on Education.

KIND EDITOR:—These allow space in your estimable paper for a few remarks that I wish to make regarding education. Education should be the leading topic of every parent and young person of this age. I do earnestly claim that every person who will apply reasonable energy and untiring patience will within a short while be the possessor of an excellent education.

Probably some one may ask why we should try to educate ourselves. I will not undertake to state the extent and importance of an education, but I state that the importance of a good education cannot in my mind be too highly estimated. Education not only elevates our intellectual powers, but will better fit us for the future life. It will be a grand blessing to us all through life.

There is a popular delusion that infests the minds of a majority of us young people that our opportunities to gain knowledge are few, that I will admit, but young friends, the greatest error that we make in educating ourselves is that we do not try to improve our time when we must have an opportunity to do so.

Good schools are becoming so numerous, that there is no excuse for any person to grow into manhood or womanhood without educating themselves. Of course some have very poor opportunities for educating themselves, but I believe that anyone who will work with undaunted courage will be successful, regardless of circumstances. I regret that I am devoid of words to express my thoughts on the importance of an education. However, my desire is that these few scattered remarks will be instrumental in causing some experienced person to write to your columns and try to arouse an interest within the heart of every young person regarding the importance of an education.

M. E. AVTRY, Mattingly, Ky., Nov. 4, 1905.

I love a maiden fair to see
And best of all she loveth me
Our hearts both beat in unity
We owe it all to Park's Herby Tea.
For she was sick and I was sad
And neither of us would ever have had
Had it not been for her aunt who said:
"Just take Park's Tea when you go to bed."

Warning Against Small-pox.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., November 4, 1893.—To the Health Officers, Physicians and People of Kentucky.
This Board has received official information of the existence of small-pox in many cases of this country, particularly in Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. It also prevails extensively in Europe, and manifests an unusual tendency every where to break over official control and assume an epidemic form.

CHOLERA!
FRESH OUTBREAK IN BERLIN.
Alarm for its invasion of America Well Founded.

Just now, when an epidemic of Asiatic cholera is among the alarming possibilities, all stomach and bowel troubles assume an importance beyond the ordinary, and should meet with prompt treatment. Cholera morbus, cholera infantum, diarrhea, dysentery, flux, colic and cramps, wind on the stomach, indigestion, distress after eating, etc., all point conclusively to a bad condition of the stomach and bowels, and all such disorders should be corrected at once.

Mr. H. L. Wilson, Staunton, Va., says: "Lightning Hot Drops is the best medicine I ever used for pains; for cramps and colic in children, it can't be beat. For flux, it is the king."

Mr. R. L. Blacksmith, of Tooley, Va., says: "Lightning Hot Drops is the best remedy I ever used for cholera; it has twenty-one actions of my bowels in less than two hours. I took three doses of Lightning Hot Drops and it relieved me instantly."

Lightning Hot Drops is the safest, surest, quickest remedy ever compounded for each and all of the above complaints. Moreover, it cures all pains, external and internal, and is the best safeguard known to destroy the evil effects of a change of water or diet. Pleasant to take. Sweetened, children like it. Lightning Hot Drops is sold by all dealers in medicine, at 25c and 50c a bottle, on the guarantee: No refund, no pay, try it once. Be not deceived. Look for Trade-Mark of natives gathering berries. THE LOUISVILLE, ST. LOUIS & TEXAS R. R. CO. NO. 21. TIME SCHEDULE

By the promptness and efficiency of several of our country branches in former years, the disease was easily stamped out. In other countries no such precautions were taken at the outset, and the disease was only checked after the loss of life, great interference with business, from the panic incident to an epidemic of this disease, and an expenditure of money which if judiciously used in systematic vaccination beforehand, would have given perfect immunity to every citizen in the community. Here, the people are in readiness to assist in the management of market fever, measles, diphtheria and other infectious diseases.
